- Whenever there is a difference between credit as ordered by the Court and Vermont Department of Corrections (DOC) research, DOC shall apply the greater of the two amounts. Notice of any discrepancies shall be provided to all parties to the case.
- The day of sentencing is NEVER counted as a day of credit when the sentence to commence date and the date of sentencing are the same. However, when they are different, the day of sentencing can be counted as a day of credit if incarcerated on that date. When calculating a new punitive sentence for a VOP, an offender receives credit for the day when the original sentence was levied, if the offender was incarcerated on that day. For work crew sentences, the day of sentencing will count as a day of credit if incarcerated, because the sentence is served on an interrupted basis.
- If the sentence is listed in hours, then the credit shall also be awarded in hours.
